

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

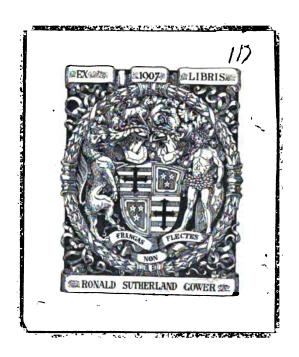

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

T is acknowledged, that few Diffricts in this County enjoy greater natural Advantages of Situation than this Parish, which is a Part of the Hundred of Brightwell's Barrow, four Miles diftant on the West from Lecblade, and eight easterly from Cirencester, on the great London Road. From GLOUCESTER it is more than 25 Miles, inclining to the South. By Computation about 3,000 Acros lie within the Boundaries, which are four Miles in Extent, and two across; of a Soil light, and intermixed with Gravel and Limestone, mostly in Tillage, and productive of artificial Graffes in great Perfection. Near the River Colne, which interfects the Parish, are many Meadows. Woodlands do not exceed 100 Acres. In 1754 the first Inclosure and Allotment of the Commonable Lands were made, and completed in 1760.

This pleasant and spacious Village has been considered by Topographers as a Town, since 1668; when ANDREW BARKER, Esq. procured a Charter for a weekly Market on Thursday, A 2 and

The Church retains many Attractions for the Virtuoso and Antiquary. It is indeed a very finished Specimen of the purest Gothic Architecture that prevailed about the Close of the fifteenth Century. This Structure confifts of a lofty Nave, two Aisles, and a Tower in the Middle; 120 Feet in length, and 55 broad. The whole is embattled; a Series of grotesque Figures surround the Architrave. Of the Tower, which is so low in Proportion that it has been thought a Spire was originally intended, the Form has some Peculiarities; for the Buttresses are flattened, and gradually diminished to the Top, and upon the Bases are Essigies as large as Life, of rude Sculpture, so that it appears to be almost octangular at a small Distance. The Parapet is ornamented with five Escocheons on each Side; the four larger of which bear the Arms of DE CLARE, DE SPENCER, NEWBURGH, and TAME. Others are charged with the ragged Staff and Fetterlock, the Cognizances of the House of Beauchamp. There are many Niches, which when filled with the highly finished Images, now removed, must have added much to the original Beauty of this Edifice. Of its internal Form and Embellishments the most minute Description we

The Tower then intervenes. The Aisles are continued parallel with the Chancel, with which is a Communication by two Arches of equal Height. Skreen furrounding the Chancel is of very beautiful Gothic Carving in Oak, with Stalls in the fame Style. On the left Hand of the Altar are three Stone Benches, or Subfellia, formerly used by the officiating Priests. The upper Division of either Aisse belongs as a Chancel to the Vicar, and Lord of the Manor. About the Year 1492, soon afterthe Siege of Boloigne, a Vessel bound to the Port of Rome, from the Low Countries, and laden with painted Glass, is said to have been taken by him, who instantly determined on preparing a Church here for its Reception. The Dedication of it to the Virgin Mary was celebrated in 1493 +, the probable Date of its Foundation; for the whole was not completed by John Tame, who died in 1500, but remained to be finished by his Son Sir Edmond Tame, Knight 1. T. JOHN TAME began the fair new Chirche of Fairford, ries of Scripture Histories, so numerous and exquisitely penciled, even before the barbarous Demolition of monastic Splendour, the whole Kingdom had not to show. During the Commotions in 1642, when the Republican Army were on their March towards Cirencester, William Oldysworh, Esq. the Impropriator, searing its Destruction, caused the whole to be taken down and concealed; and to him the Lovers of ancient Art are indebted for its present Existence, which, although mutilated in many Parts, is still unrivalled*. * Of these " storied Windows richly dight, Casting a dim religious Light,"

(for fitrely none can more completely answer the Idea of the Poet) it appears that a Description was engrossed on Vellum by order of Sir Edmund Tame, and preferred in the Church Chest. It is now lost, but a Paper Roll copied from it, falling into the Hands of Mr. MURRAY, was published by HEARNE, in his Edition of Roper's Life of Sir T. More, p. 273, 8vo. In 1765 another Account, collected chiefly from the Former, and popular Traditon, was printed at Cirencesser, of which some Parts are rather inaccurate. are twenty-eight Windows, with four, or more, Compartments in each; all of which deserve a minute and separate Investigation, both of the Subjects, and the present State. If we follow the Series of Seripture Histories exhibited in these Delineations, the Account must commence with the fifth Window, in the North Aifle, in which it may be observed, they are in much the best State of Preservation.

t. Miscellaneous, and rather imperfect. The Serpent tempting Eve. Joshua in Armour, kneeling. Moses, and his Divine Legation, from the burning Bush. The Queen of Sheba offering Gifts to King Solomon. The third and fourth Subjects are exquisitely coloured.

2. Very imperfect. The History of the Mission of our Savious, beginning with the Marriage of Zacharias and Elizabeth; the Birth of John Baptist; the Interview between Mary and Elizabeth; and the Betrothing of Joseph and Mary.

3. Very

3. Very perfect and excellent. The Salutation of the Virgin; Legend on a Scroll, "Abe Maria Gra' plena Dra "tecum;" the Birth of Christ; the Offerings of the Wife Men; the Purification of the bleffed Virgin; and the Circumcifion of our Lorp. In this Window it would be difficult to point out which has the greater Merit; the Air and Character of the Figures, or the perspective View of the Inside of the Temple.

4. Perfect. The Flight into Egypt; the Assumption of the blessed Virgin; Joseph and Mary seeking Christ after the Feast, whom they find disputing with the Doctors in the Temple.

5. The great East Window, in the most persect State. The triumphant Entry of Jesus into Jerusalem; Zacheus; and Figures with a Label, "Statis Laus, et Genes, tibi ste;" his Agony in the Garden; Judas betraying him; Pilate sitting in Judgement against him; the Jews scourging him, and compelling him to bear his Cross. In the upper Compartments, the Crucifixion, Mary, and the other Women, Roman Soldiers, &c. The most striking Parts of this Window are, a Book covered with crimson Velvet and gilt; the Countenances of Pilate, and of Mary, with the superb Caparisons upon the Horses of the Soldiers.

6. Rather perfect. The taking down from the Cross; Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus receiving the Body, and laying it in the Sepulchre; St. Michael contending with Beelzebub, who is overcome, and confined within a fiery Grate. The dead Body is admirably characterized.

fiery Grate. The dead Body is admirably characterized.
7. Perfect, and well deligned. The Embalming of out Lord; the Angel in the Garden having rolled away the Stone; the Transfiguration, with Moses and Elias, attendant Disciples, Saints Peter, James, and John; Jesus appearing to his Mother, with this Salutation, "Salus fancte "Pareng." This Piece excels in perspective; particularly a View of Jerusalem from the Garden, and a Flemish Castle of three Towers, to signify the three Tabernacles.

8. Chaist appearing to two Disciples going to Emman; manifesting himself to the Twelve; Unbelief of Thomas.

o. Rather perfect. The miraculous Draught of Fishes; the Ascention; and the Day of Pentecost.

The three Successive Windows contain Portraits of the twelve

13. Imperfect. Four primitive Fathers of the Church; St. GREGORY, habited as Pope; St. JEROME, as Cardinal; St. Ambrose and St. Augustine, as Bishops.

14. Very imperfect. DAVID fitting in Judgement against the Amalekite, for cutting off the Head of SAUL.

16. The great West Window; perfect; and exhibiting a iew of the Last Day; our Saviour coming to Judgement, a Sword in bis left Hand, " Jufficia," a Palm Branch in his right, " Milesicornia." In the lower Compartments, St. MICHAEL in Armour, weighing Souls. The general Refurrection; an Angel conducting a Saint to Heaven; over whom, a Label, " Dmnis (pecies iauna Deum." St. PETER, with his Symbols, admitting the bleffed Spirits, " Gratias " age D'ne Dee pro." Those who have passed the Gate are clothed in white Robes, and represent a Pope, a King, a Bishop, and a Monk, " Benevictus at Deus in Donis fuis." On the other Side are the Internal Regions; Devils tormenting the condemned Souls, " Ate in Damnationem paratam bo-" bis." Gothic Fancy was never more happily displayed than in these Designs, at once horrible and ludicrous. The Bril2001. secured each Window with a Lattice of Wire.

16. Imperfect. The Judgement of Solomon; Sampson flaying the Philiftines; Dalilah cutting off his Hair; two Rabbinical Doctors disputing on Points of the Law. These are exquisitely finished, the Characters of the Heads very bold, and the Drapery and facerdotal Embelishments inimitable.

17. Imperfect. The four Evangelists; the Head of St. Mark, very excellent.

18. Perfect; and contains, with two others, Portraits of twelve Prophets, with Labels over the Head of each.

25, 26, 27, 28. Twelve Roman Emperors, Preservers of the Church. In the Reign of Charles the First, before their Removal, these Windows were inspected by Sir Antony Vandyke, who, says Hearne, "often affirmed both to the King and others, that many of the Figures were of a exquisitely well done, that they could not be exceeded.

When Domesday was compiled, the Manor of Fairford was stated to contain twenty-one Hides of Land, with thirty Plow Tillages, and was referved by the King, under the Title of "Terra Regis." In 1263, 47 Hen. III. RICHARD DE CLARE, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford, obtained this Lordship, with Privilege of a Market and Fairs, which in the succeeding Reign was confirmed to GILBERT his Son, whose Sister and Coheir ELIANOR, conveyed it by Marriage to Hugh LE DESPENCER the younger, in 1314. From this last Family it descended to the BEAUCHAMPS and NEVYLLES, Earls of Warwick, and was one of the hundred and fourteen Manors which were fraudulently obtained from Anne Countels of WARWICK * by King HENRY VII. by a Deed, dated Dec. 13, 1488. JOHN TAME aforementioned purchased this

Years he could have attained such Proficiency; for he was born in 1471, and the Glass was taken in 1492. Who was the real Artist is a Circumstance involved in some Obscurity. Neither Luca Van Leyden nor Goltzius could have been employed, as they both flourished after the Church was sinished. But for this, the extreme Resemblance of the Style of the well-known Etchings of these Masters, would induce us to attribute this beautiful Work to them. May we be allowed a Conjecture, that the Designer was Francesco Francia, who was born at Bologna in 1450, where he lived till 1518, peculiarly eminent in the Art of encaustic Painting.

In what Estimation these splendid Ornaments of our Churches were held by our pious Reformers, may be seen in Harrison's Description of England, book II. chap. 1. p. 138. col. 2. 30. printed in 1580, and prefixed to Holinshed's Chronicles, where he proposes, "that white Glasse may be provided, and set up in their Roomes."

STRYPE, in his Annals, p. 185, fays, that Queen ELIZA-BETH issued out her Proclamation, prohibiting any Persons, under severe Penalties, from defacing Monuments, and from breaking any Image in Glass Windows.

About the Commencement of the last Century, Sir Richard Verney, Knight, transferred this Estate to Sir Henry Unton, and John Croke, Esq. who soon after re-sold it to the Family of Tracey; for in 1608 Sir John Tracey, Knight, occurs as Lord of the Manor.

There was very anciently a manerial Residence near the Church, erected by the Earls of Warwick, and called Beauchamp and Warwick Court *. It appears that it was re-built by the TAMES; for LELAND observes, "there is a fayr Mansion Place "of the TAMES hard by the Chirche-yarde, "builded thoroughly by John Tame and ED-" MUNDE TAME, the Backfide therof goithe to "the very Bridg of Fairford ." This House was taken down by Andrew Barker, Esq. who, with the Materials of it, built the present Manfion, fome Furlongs distant; in finking the Foundations of which, Urns and Roman Coins are said by Dr. Parsons to have been discovered. It is a large and commodious Edifice, and has been confiderably improved by the present Proprietor.

Within the Park Pale, about 200 Acres are inclosed, well planted, with an Avenue of a Mile in Length. The Pleasure Grounds were long and deservedly admired, when in that Style of Embellishment, which distinguished the Close of the last Century. In this Parish are three Tythings; 1. The Borough, which has its own Constable; 2. and 3. East End, and Milltown End, to each of which a Tything Man is distinctly affigued.
